MAKES READY FOR CAMPAIGN

Democratic State Central Committee Meets.

WOMAN NAMED VICE CHAIRMAN

Committee Votes to Increase the Executive Committee to Twenty-Two Members and Names Associate Women Members in Most of the Districts of the State--Woman Elected Assistant Secretary.

Columbus, Sept. 10.—There will be no "formal" opening of the Democratic state campaign.

This was announced by the Democratic executive committee, whose members consider the Ohio campaign to have been formally opened by the state convention and the address by John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential nominee.

The executive committee met after the Democratic state central committee had elected Mrs. Drucilla Bullock of Cleveland its vice chairman; voted to increase the executive committee by nine to 22 members, and named associate women members in most of the districts. It also named Mrs. Mabel Schaeffer of Dayton assistant secretary.

The following subcommittee of the central committee will name the other nine members of the executive committee: Newt Bronson, Fifth district; Ervin Snyder, Eleventh district; and Robert Howard, Seventeenth district.

The following women associate members of the central committee were named: First district, Miss Earnestine Pattison, Cincinnati; Second, Mrs. Bertha Doyle, Cincinnati; Third, Mrs. E. F. Shively, Dayton; Fifth, Mrs. Ella T. Fast, Paulding; Seventh, Miss Anna B. Johnson, Springfield; Eighth, Mrs. Elouise Thrall, Carey; Eleventh, Mrs. Ruth Donally Steele, Chillicothe; Twelfth, Mrs. Florence H. Bay, Columbus; Thirteenth, Mrs. Rudolph Lamford, North Baltimore; Fifteenth, Miss Helen W. Jones, Zanesville; Seventeenth, Mrs. Phoebe B. Garver, Ashland; Eighteenth, Mrs. Martha Carlisle, Martins Ferry; Twenty-first, Miss Rose Tenessey, Cleveland; Twenty-second, Miss Bernice S. Pyke, Cleveland.

Chairman Dye of the state executive committee asked for an "aggressive campaign" for both state and national Democratic tickets in Ohio this year. He warned members of the state central committee that the party contest this year was not to be "kid glove or silk stocking affair" in the comparison of the administration of Vic Donahey with that of Harry L. Davis.

SOYBEAN FIELD DAY

Ohio State University Playing Host to Growers Today.

Columbus, Sept. 10.—Ohio State university is playing host today to growers of soybeans at a soybean field day on the university farm. Sixteen events are listed on the program, including one hour for speaking. For nearly 15 years the farm crops department at the university has experimented with soybeans on the university farm. The first soybean field day at the university is in recognition of the phenomenal increase in soybean acreage throughout Ohio, an increase especially noticeable this year because of the difficulty with corn and, in some parts of the state, with winter wheat and alfalfa.

Today the growers were conducted in small groups to whichever of the demonstration plots they are interested in. The university has 35 acres of soybeans for hay, 30 acres for seed, 25 acres with corn for silage and six acres for special demonstrations.

Veteran Official Retires.
Cincinnati, Sept. 10.—Patrick F. Hussey, 74, retired today after 35 years of service in the customs office. A government pension will provide for him the remainder of his life. NATION'S CORN CROP LIGHT

In Lowest Condition in Forty Years, Report Shows.

WHEAT PROSPECTS BRIGHTER

Increase of 23,000,000 Bushels in Prospective Yield Noted by the Federal Agricultural Department. Oat Crop of 1,486,000,000 Forecast, 185,000,000 Larger Than Last Year. Other Crops.

Washington, Sept. 10.—The agricultural department's September crop report show that the nation's corn crop entered September in the lowest condition in the last 40 years, with three exceptions.

The report shows a decline of 63,000,000 bushels in the corn crop prospects. Extremes of temperature and rainfall have been unfavorable to the crop, which was planted late, is extremely irregular in stand and development, and has not been able to catch up with the season except in some sections where drought is ripening the crop prematurely, the report adds. A crop of 2,513,000,000 bushels is indicated, or 533,000,000 bushels less than last year.

An increase of 23,000,000 bushels in the prospective wheat crop is noted. The crop is now placed at 837,000,000 bushels, spring wheat having been benefited during August by particularly favorable weather in the principal producing states, where the quality is excellent and the acre yields high.

Spring wheat prospects are 34,000,000 bushels higher than last year's crop, while winter wheat production is estimated at 589,000,000 bushels, or 17,000,000 more than last year. Oats also improved during August to the extent of 47,000,000 bushels with a crop of 1,486,000,000 bushels forecast. That is 185,000,000 bushels larger than last year's crop. The generally cool season has been most favorable. The flaxseed crop, forecast at 29,000,000 bushels, is larger than in any previous year excepting 1902.

Late potatoes in the northern states have been favored by August weather and a forecast of 413,000,000 bushels was announced, an increase of 14,000,000 over August 1, and 22,000,000 bushels larger than the five year average. The tobacco production forecast is below any year since 1916 with the exception of 1921, a total of 1,195,000,000 pounds being indicated. The crop in Kentucky, principal producing state, is generally poor and the plants are small. A decline is noted in Ohio.

BEFORE ENROLLING

Vaccination of Ohio State University Students Urged.

Columbus, Sept. 10.—President Thompson of Ohio State university recommends that all students expecting to enter the university Sept. 29 should be vaccinated before enrolling. "The unfortunate experience in Ohio with a malignant form of smallpox has quadrupled the death rate so far this year as compared with the years since the war," Dr. Thompson points out. He adds that, although the state board of health and the university could, in the exercise of their legal authority, deny registration or attendance to any students not successfully vaccinated, there is no desire on the part of either the university or the state board to resort to such methods. "We are trying, therefore, to bring to the attention of all prospective students the importance of using the present time for any inconvenience that vaccination may cause."

OHIO HAPPENINGS

Two Firemen Badly Hurt.

Cincinnati, Sept. 10.—Officials are investigating an accident in which two firemen were injured, probably fatally, when they were hurled 50 feet by a Chesapeake and Ohio locomotive which struck a ladder on which they were standing to fight a small fire. Daniel Kummer, 33, received a broken back and other fractures; Charles Rohmer, 31, received fractures of his legs and internal injuries.

Jitneys Win in Court.

Youngstown, O., Sept. 10.—Judge L. H. Farr of the court of appeals handed down a decision to the effect that Ohio cities have no right to enforce traffic regulations interfering with routes established for jitneys by the state public utilities commission. The ruling was made in the case in which Youngstown has fought to exclude the jitneys from the downtown section.

Motorman Killed.

Sandusky, O., Sept. 10.—William Pluckhorn of Oak Harbor, motorman on a Northwestern Ohio interurban freight car, was killed and other members of the crew were injured when the car left the track and crashed through the east wall of the power building at Marblehead. William Bennett, conductor, had a broken right arm as well as internal injuries.

Search For Girl Extended.

Cleveland, Sept. 10.—Search for Mrs. Anna Iacavanzzi, 17, missing since Labor day, has been extended to Canada and detectives announced that the arrest of several additional suspects in the girl's disappearance will be made soon. The suspects are believed to be members of a gang responsible for what police now believe was a case of abduction.

University Official Dead.

Columbus, Sept. 10.—Professor Cyrus Brooks Austin, vice president of Ohio Wesleyan university and for 37 years dean of women, died in Grant hospital in this city. He had been in failing health since suffering a stroke of apoplexy more than a year ago. He was born in Clinton county, O., Aug. 21, 1851, and graduated from Ohio Wesleyan in 1879.

Contractor Sentenced.

Akron, O., Sept. 10.—Jesse Farewell, 38, contractor, was sentenced to a year in the Canton workhouse and fined $1,000 on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of Leona Davis, 19, of Cleveland. Farewell, the girl testified, took her to Chicago four years ago, where they lived until last spring.

Face Murder Charge.

Cleveland, Sept. 10.—Indictments charging first degree murder were returned by the county grand jury against Hunter Charles, 29, and Ben Beebe, 20, who are accused of robbing and slaying John E. Johnson, 60-year-old hermit, in his one-room home here three weeks ago.

Touched High Tension Wire.

Toledo, Sept. 10.—William Barger, 42, lineman, was killed instantly when he fell 30 feet after being knocked from a pole by contact with a high tension wire.

Extra Levy Proposed.

Springfield, O., Sept. 10.—City Manager Robert Flack declared that unless an extra levy for municipal operations is approved at the election in November, drastic cuts will be necessary in all city departments. He also announced that an extra levy of seven-tenths of a mill would be proposed. It is figured that this would bring in $62,000, which would be the minimum required for city operations, according to the city manager.

BATTLE SWEEPS TOWARD CITY

Attacking Forces Within Eight Miles of Shanghai.

MARTIAL LAW PROCLAIMED

American and Allied Marines Take Over the Foreign Quarter and Will Check General Chi's Forces if They Attempt to Advance Beyond the Border of the Foreign Settlement. Day's Developments.

Shanghai, China, Sept. 10.—Martial law has been proclaimed in the foreign settlement in this city.

This action was taken by the allied and American military commanders as the fighting between the rival Chinese armies swept toward Shanghai. Two hundred and fifty American marines, together with about 800 Japanese, British and Italians, landed from foreign war vessels lying off the Woo Sung forts.

The forces of General Lu Yung are being beaten back upon Shanghai and hundreds of thousands of refugees are fleeing into the city and seeking refuge in the quarters guarded by the international marines. The attacking forces of General Chi Hieh Yuan stormed the Woo Sung forts, 10 miles from Shanghai, and later were reported to have pushed forward to within eight miles of the city.

In the foreign quarter word that the attacking Chinese army had come into contact with the defending marines was expected momentarily. Admiral A. J. D. S. United States navy, is in charge of the marines. His orders are to hold the entire border of the foreign settlement and check General Chi's forces if they attempted to advance further.

General Wu Pei Fu, leader of the Chi Li party, arrived at the Liuhoo battlefield before Shanghai to direct personally the assault of Chi Hieh Yuan's forces upon the city. Learning this, Chang Tso Lin sent word that he would kill Wu Pei Fu and also President Tsao Kun of the Peking government.

Another powerful war lord, Sun Yat Sen, is sending large numbers of troops northward to Shanghai, but it is pointed out that Sun's troops will have the greatest difficulty in establishing contact with Lu Yung Hsiang, whom he desires to aid.

SURRENDERS IN FEDERAL COURT

Charged With Complicity in Toledo Postoffice Robbery.

Toledo, Sept. 10.—Charges of complicity in the $1,000,000 postoffice robbery in February, 1921, and the escape from jail on Labor day, 1922, of three convicted members of the bandit gang, are filed against Anthony Cangiamilla, who surrendered in federal court here.

Cangiamilla had been sought on a secret indictment since Feb. 15. He furnished bond of $10,000. He is said to have been in the San Joaquin valley, Cal., during the last several months, while federal agents were combing the country for him. Cangiamilla is specifically charged with aiding in the escape of George Rogers, who was recaptured and who is now serving a 67-year term in Moundsville (W. Va.) federal prison.

Rogers, Joe Urbaytis and Charles Schultz fled from the county jail. Rogers was supposed to have been hauled out of Toledo to Fostoria, in a load of hay and bananas through the aid of Cangiamilla. Rogers was captured on a poultry farm near Chicago shortly afterward. Schultz surrendered to a posse when his refuge at Crissey, O., was surrounded. Urbaytis was captured in a gun fight with Columbus detectives last May 5, and is now in county jail recovering from wounds and awaiting trial.

Catholic Knights Elect.

Fremont, O., Sept. 10.—Henry M. Gabel of Fremont was elected president of the Catholic Knights of Ohio at the closing session of the state convention. Peter Bergman of Cincinnati was elected vice president; George Matheaur of Cleveland, secretary, and W. E. Strasser of Upper Sandusky, trustee. The 1925 state meeting will be held at Maumee.

UPHELD BY COURT

In Fall's Objection to Stenographer in Grand Jury Room.

Washington, Sept. 10.—Justice Sides of the District of Columbia supreme court sustained Albert B. Fall's objection to the presence of a stenographer in the room of the grand jury investigating naval oil leases, but his attorney's pleas to stop the proceedings were denied. The court held that the presence of the stenographer, not a special assistant to the attorney general and a lawyer, was in violation of the secrecy of grand jury proceedings, and the testimony of three witnesses so far examined will have to be retaken. Claims by Fall's attorneys that the proceedings were not for the purpose of obtaining additional indictments in the oil cases, but were merely a "fishing expedition" for more evidence, were not agreed to by the court. Government counsel said the present proceedings would be discontinued and others begun to conform with the opinion.

Pleads Guilty in Court.

Akron, O., Sept. 10.—Glenn Brown, 50, broker, pleaded guilty to embezzlement and was sentenced to from one to 10 years in the penitentiary. Brown, a former vice president of the Cleveland Discount company, was charged with obtaining $6,260 worth of the Discount firm's stock from Mrs. George A. Newton of Richfield under a trust agreement and failing to return to her full proceeds from the sale of the shares.

RESULT IN MAINE

Returns Give Brewster, Republican, a Majority of 36,000.

Portland, Me., Sept. 10.—Returns from the state election in Maine show that Ralph O. Brewster, Republican, was elected governor by 36,000 over William R. Pattangall, Democrat, running on an Anti-Ku Klux Klan platform. The Republicans elected one United States senator, four congressmen and a majority of their state and county tickets.

The result is accredited by Republican leaders to President Coolidge's popularity. Mr. Pattangall, defeated candidate for governor, said the result was "distinctly a triumph for the Ku Klux Klan," adding: "Maine will not long endure the rule of the Klan."

DEPOSED BY ARMY

Chilean President Sheltered in American Embassy.

Santiago, Chile, Sept. 10.—President Arturo Alessandri of Chile, who tendered his resignation after a group of young army officers had forced him to reorganize his cabinet, is sheltered in the American embassy here. The political situation continues chaotic. The military committee, which virtually has assumed control of affairs, did not accept the president's resignation, but announced he would be absent from functions usually demanding his presence temporarily. The committee issued a statement guaranteeing the safety of the chief executive.

Where Solons Are "Docked"

In Australia, where members of parliament receive about $5,000 a year, the members are fined or "docked" for absences during a session. This system differs from that in effect in the mother country. England, or in America, where a member may take a day or so off every now and then to attend to his private affairs without worrying about it. In England the salary of a member of parliament is only about $2,000 a year.

Sacred Canon of Egyptians

The Hermetic books was the name given to the sacred canon of the ancient Egyptians, consisting of 42 books, divided into six sections. They derive their name from their reputed author, Hermes Trismegistus, and are an encyclopedia of theology, religion, arts and sciences.

Their authorship and time of production are alike unknown, but they are supposed to have been written by Egyptian Neo-Platonists in the Fourth century after Christ.

Jamblichus gives their number as 20,000 and Manetho as 36,525. According to some of the ancients, Pythagoras and Plato derived all their knowledge from these "Hermetic books," the Detroit News states.

Heifers Had to Swim

Four heifer calves belonging to Sam Carson of Hermiston, Ore., involuntarily made a record long-distance swim. The heifers strayed away from the herd and fell into a concrete-lined canal. The water was too deep for them to wade and the sides were too steep for them to scale, so the animals had to swim or perish. They were noticed by a farmer nine miles below the Carson place and removed by use of ropes.

MOVEMENT TO POPULARIZE NATIVE FILMS IN CHINA

About Nine-Tenths of the Huge Population Never Have Seen a Moving Picture.

Shanghai.—Out of an estimated population of somewhere between 400,000,000 and 500,000,000, it is believed that 90 per cent of the people of China have never seen a motion picture.

For this reason an effort now under way to provide movies acted and produced by Chinese is interesting.

In China's largest centers and in the treaty ports the picture screen long has been commonplace and mixed audiences of Chinese and foreigners are thrilled over the film favorites. Just as are audiences in the United States. But hitherto the sporadic efforts to popularize the movies in the interior of China have failed.

Within the last year several companies in Shanghai have undertaken to produce Chinese pictures, and perhaps a half dozen of these have been exhibited with varying degrees of success. As they necessarily were made by unskilled actors and more or less inexperienced directors, they have appeared crude in the eyes of the Chinese used to the finished foreign productions. These films are being sent tentatively into the centers of the interior, where it is necessary to throw up temporary mat sheds in which to show them.

A Shanghai picture man explained: "It is altogether a problem of educating the Chinese people to the movies." He then went on to tell the experience of a showman who invaded the interior with a number of films. The people wouldn't go to see the pictures, and so the showman adopted the expedient of paying his audiences to come, doling out handfuls of cash to each person who entered the makeshift theater. The showman's money gave out before his films, which were of foreign production, had gained popularity, and thus his efforts came to naught.

Later enterprises in Shanghai include one started by China's largest publishing concern, which is making efforts to improve the quality of the pictures, the acting, costuming and settings. Several of the country's leading actors of the speaking stage have been recruited for this work, which is being confined to plots based on stories purely Chinese.

How the efforts of these organizations will be received by China's inarticulate masses, and whether a Chinese Charlie Chaplin or a Mary Pickford in silken trousers will capture the country, are matters as difficult to conjecture as the answers to any other of the country's many questions.

Concerning the Bible

Most persons think that the Bible was first written exactly as it appears today. But such is not the case. It was originally one continuous piece of text, with no divisions of any kind—no sections, no chapters, no verses, no divisions of words even, or punctuation. Its division into lines to suit the sense was done by Euthyphorus of Alexandria in the last half of the fifth century. Its division into chapters is ascribed to two archbishops, Lanfranc in the Eleventh century, and Lancelotti in the Thirteenth century, and a cardinal, Hugo de Sancto Caro, about 1250. Rabbi Nathan began the division of the Bible into sections about 1445, and another Hebrew, Athras, completed the work in 1631. An English printer, Robert Stephens, introduced the present division into verses in 1551.

Venus' Basket

Venus' basket is a glass-silk sponge which grows in the tropical seas of the Pacific, from the Fujiyama region to the Indian ocean. By the Japanese it is called the mineral silk sponge, and is used for its fiber, which is woven into chemical fiber cloths, into fireproof candlesticks and into delicate fireproof curtains. In its natural state the glass sponge is covered with these long silky fibers which are used in the arts referred to. A small tuft of these fibers covers the base.

The specimens are raked up from the ocean bed, and the framework, which cannot be separated into fiber for weaving, is employed in the covering of steam pipes and in cold-storage insulation, where it has been found equal to asbestos.

Light Lights, When Lifted

One of the most utilitarian night lights yet offered by the electrical manufacturers is one in the shape of a candlestick which when it is standing remains unlighted but immediately it is lifted the tiny bulb glows. It is a bedroom night light and works on a battery. Its own weight pushes the off button so that it remains unlighted when not in use.

Symbol of Mother Love

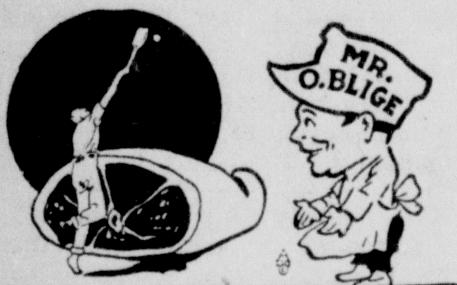

In plucking the down from her breast to make a soft, warm lining for her young, the mother pelican sometimes draws a drop or two of blood in tugging at some recalcitrant feather. This fact has been responsible for the pelican's being accepted as the symbol of self-sacrificing mother love.—From the Mentor.

One Use for Swan

Mops of swan skin that still retain the down have been introduced as aids in cleaning statuary.

Reporter Is Kidnaped and Branded on Arm

Lucien San Souci, reporter for a newspaper of Providence, R. I., says he was kidnaped and branded on the arm by members of the Ku Klux Klan during a Klan meeting near Woonsocket, R. I. San Souci said he overheard a conversation regarding the meeting, and, anxious to get a story for his paper, hurried to the scene. He says he was seized by about twenty men of the hooded tribe, beaten and then branded.

$600,000 to Be Spent on the Harding Tomb

Marion, Ohio.—At least $600,000 will be expended in the construction of the Harding memorial tomb and $100,000 in beautifying the memorial site and surrounding area included in the general landscaping scheme, Brig. Gen. Charles E. Sawyer, chairman of the executive committee and in charge of national headquarters of the Harding Memorial association here, announced. General Sawyer has recommended to the executive board of the association that Albert D. Taylor of Cleveland be employed to have charge of the landscaping. Requests urging members of the executive committee to endorse Taylor were telegraphed from headquarters.

Contributions totaling $904,000 have been received to date. Funds in excess of the $600,000 will be set aside as an endowment for the maintenance of the memorial.

No Internal Remedy for Poultry Pests

Medicine Will Not Control External Parasites.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Manufacturing and selling preparations for controlling lice, mites, ticks (blue bugs) and other external parasites of poultry by serving to the fowls in their feed or drinking water is a popular pastime of a number of concerns and one which the United States Department of Agriculture says should not be tolerated. A number of the mixtures advertised for use in controlling external pests by administering in the feed have been tested by the insecticide and fungicide board of the department and all have been found to be ineffective. Among the products which were offered as powders to be mixed with the feed are several containing mixtures of sulphur, charcoal, magnesium sulphate, ferrous sulphate, nux vomica, capicum, sodium carbonate, naphthalene, lime, salt and sand. Some of the mixtures were lime-sulphur solutions to be added to the drinking water; some calcium sulphide tablets of various percentages and having quantities of other chemicals as well. All were tested and found to be ineffective for the purpose advertised.

In view of these numerous tests the board has served notice on the manufacturers who may be selling or contemplating selling the above-mentioned products to be used in this manner for controlling external pests of poultry that they are guilty of violating the provisions of the insecticide act of 1910, and that the products are misbranded. The board is of the opinion that these tests are sufficient to strongly indicate that such a method is ineffective and further that it is extremely doubtful if any substance will be found which will be effective when used in the feed or drinking water. Tests have not been made of all of the mixtures advertised against all of the pests named, but, taking into consideration the tests which have been made and the anatomy and physiology of chickens, it is believed that it is unlikely that any of the substances proposed, or any combination of them, when fed to chickens, will control any of the external parasites infesting them. These preparations are sold for the most part directly to consumers by parcel post.

"Caveat emptor"—let the buyer beware.

Tuberculosis Found in Different Dairy States

Systematic tuberculosis testing of cattle conducted by various states and the United States Department of Agriculture co-operatively, show that nearly nine-tenths of premises contain no tuberculous cattle. The per cent of infection, however, varies greatly, the records show. In ten states infection exceeds 25 per cent, or one in four. In eleven states the average infection is less than five, or one herd in twenty. The other states have intermediate proportions of infection.

Persons who have never had their cattle tested for tuberculosis and who desire to know the extent of infection in their locality, may obtain this information by application to the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture. While the information given is believed to be of interest to cattle owners, the only certain method of knowing the health condition of a herd with respect to tuberculosis is the application for a tuberculin test by a competent veterinarian.

FARM FACTS

Save toll and time by using your head.

The toad is one of the best friends the farmer can have.

Woods look well and furnish a cash return from poor land.

Good feed to good cows will make both the land and its owner richer.

A 1-1/2-3 mixture and water clean enough to drink make the most durable concrete.

Uncle Ab says, "It's a wise hen that knows her own eggs, but a trap-nest tells the poultryman every time."

Remember that mosquitoes have to hatch in water before they can sting you. Empty out all the old tin cans and cover stagnant ponds with oil.

Two very important factors—time of cutting and method of handling or curing—determine the value of alfalfa hay. Watch them.

Late blight is the most severe of all potato diseases, and the vines should be sprayed at least every two weeks as long as new foliage is being put out.

Everyone knows that pure bred animals pay; why not pure bred seeds? The state college of agriculture knows, and advises registered seed; use better wheat this fall.

Any common tin can filled about half full of axle grease in which is placed an old worn-out paint brush will be found very handy on the farm for greasing plow shares and cultivator shovels.

This charming wrap in cherry and gray velvet brocade, bordered and trimmed with cherry satin ribbon and collared with silver fox, was shown at a recent New York fashion display.

Choose Veil of Color and Weave That Suits

Do you select your veil with a view to covering "a multitude of sins," or do you regard it only as a becoming "finishing touch" to your costume?

While it is true that a veil does minimize certain defects, it is not a mask or a disguise. And it should not only hide imperfections, but heighten charms, says a correspondent in the Kansas City Star.

Ask yourself these questions as you adjust your veil: Does it enhance the beauty of my hat? Does it give my toilet a more complete appearance? Does it protect my face?

Let your veil be of a color and weave that you know suits you; and never let it be straggly. The blue veil is perhaps the most becoming of all. It has the effect of clarifying the skin and heightening the color, and, if the eyes happen to be blue, it increases their color and brilliancy.

The face veil solely of white is the one most to be avoided, as it is unbecoming except to very youthful women, or those who have very clear, highly-colored complexions.

A woman with small features should, ordinarily, wear a veil with a light pattern. A heavier pattern may suit the larger woman. Similarly, a small, close-fitting hat usually requires a single-mesh veil; but where the veil is farther away from the face, as on the large hat, the larger-patterned veil is smart and becoming.

The most satisfactory sort of veil for everyday use is the heavier, twilled, linen-mesh one, say, in brown, or in white with black dots. These veils are becoming to nearly every one, and they wash and wear well.

If you want a really fine, filmy veil, however, get a real silk mesh. For if you buy the cheap imitations in stiffened cotton, the sticky dressing on them soon comes off, and the veil easily crumples and tears.

Having selected your veil, learn to take care of it. Do not leave it on your hat for days at a time. Remove it when you take off your hat, stretch out the width and roll it up. You may wash your twilled linen or cotton veils.

Shoes for Outdoor Wear Must Be of Right Kind

The most important item of the outdoor costume is footwear and it is not easy to achieve a happy combination of ease and style without sacrificing a little of each. Feet that are cramped or damp must be carefully avoided, and shoes that resemble ten-league boots are equally out of the picture. The secret of graceful boots which are at the same time comfortable and waterproof lies in the type of leather employed. Oil-tanned leathers are equal to this exigency and it is important to remember that shoes of this sort should never be dried over a fire as this leather burns very easily. Chrome-tanned leather is also satisfactory—it is soft and pliable, and after it is dried does not become brittle or cracky.

The size of the hiking or tramping shoe is of utmost importance. Remember that heavy woolen hosiery is essential to foot comfort in heavy shoes, and that it is customary to order shoes of this character at least two sizes larger than the normal measurements. All shoes are high and all heels are low. Of course, there is a definite sacrifice of smartness in this arrangement but it is obvious that even the trimmest ankle could not march far in a high-heeled slipper.

Featuring One Color
Some of the smart New York shoes are featuring one color. Thus, the faintest hermosta yellow is seen in chiffon frocks for evening wear. The deeper shades of yellow are used for afternoon costumes and wraps, while the most vivid yellows are reserved for sports clothes.

Olive Trees.
The olive is "beyond all others the tree of civilization. From the day you plant the tree, about sixteen to eighteen years must pass before it begins to produce any return—seventeen years of care, work and unremunerative preparation. In southern France, in the Arrondissement Grasse, one-third of the country is planted with olives, and supported a population of 60,000 in the year 1880; the other two-thirds, which grew no olives, contained a population of 10,000. In the olive-growing district of Tunisia, 150,000 people live in an area of 300 square kilometers; but close by are districts inhabited by five or six people to the square kilometer."

Eagle Sometimes Ill-Omened.
The eagle is found on the royal arms of a great many civilized nations. Curiously enough, the eagle has often proved a bird of ill omen for nations who adopted him as their device; for in many cases they have risen to great power only to sustain terrible reverses. Rome conquered the world under the eagle-standards of her legions, and then crumbled into dust. Napoleon's eagles made him the terror of the world, till he fell more rapidly than he had risen. In the World War the eagles of Germany, Austria, Bulgaria, and Russia were brought low.

HERRICK REFRIGERATORS

The Big Difference In Refrigerators

The main object of any refrigerator, of course, is the preservation of foods. The refrigerator that will keep foods in perfect condition longest is naturally the refrigerator you want—provided it doesn't increase your ice bills.

The Herrick answers those requirements with facts—not claims. And it does even more. It actually decreases your ice bills while giving you more effective food preservation.

And why? Simply because the Herrick is far more than an ice box—far more than a cold storage place. It is built on the scientifically demonstrated principle that more than merely cold air is necessary to keep foods in good condition for any great length of time.

Perhaps the biggest essentials to scientifically correct refrigeration are—

- No. 1. Circulation of cold dry air.
- No. 2. Effective Insulation.
- No. 3. Air-tight construction.

That the Herrick has these necessary essentials is a demonstrated fact.

Many proofs of the truth are visible even to the least informed purchaser. Others are hidden within the walls of the refrigerator, but nevertheless there, performing their functions so important to good health and economy.

BEST SABLE FIELD IMPERILED BY OIL

Russia to Decide Between the Two Industries.

Moscow.—Sables or oil? That is the question which the Soviet government's planning commission must decide.

Far off in the northern Pacific the peninsula of Kamchatka protrudes from the mainland like a dagger blade separating the Bering and Hunter seas. For decades Kamchatka has been Russia's best happy hunting ground for sables. Every year 5,000 of the little blue-black animals, whose skins are valued at approximately $500,000, were hunted down on the peninsula.

Now an expedition led by P. I. Polevov, a geologist of the Soviet geological survey, has discovered oil on Kamchatka. The oil is of an extraordinary quality and yields 75 to 78 per cent of kerosene, whereas the best crude product of the Baku field yields only 40 per cent.

The find is of paramount importance to the economic development of Siberia. Russia's unfathomable petroleum resources in the Caucasus are too far from this vast domain, while the oil fields in northern Sakhalin, which have been granted as a concession to the Sinclair company, are still occupied by Japanese troops. Considerable pressure is therefore being put on the Moscow authorities to appropriate a sum of money for the opening of the Kamchatka field. But here the sables interfere.

The oil deposits which Professor Polevov has discovered are situated just below the trapping grounds for sables. The sables from the entire peninsula rush into this trapping space during a certain season of the year when the three rivers of the district overflow their banks. The small fur-bearing animals seek refuge in the high open preserve especially set aside for this purpose by the government. A decree prohibits any manner of industrial or mining activities in the area. And the soft sables, seeking refuge, find death. Experienced hunters have no difficulty in trapping the creatures wholesale. Kamchatka supplies one-fourth of Russia's sables.

Will madame be able to step into one of those brilliant shops on Fifth avenue next summer and buy herself a cape made of Kamchatka sable? It depends on the decision of the bolsheviks in Moscow. Will they annul the decree and permit the sinking of wells, thus to drive the sables away, or will they be kind to the sables and help them reach Paris and New York?

Youthful Genius Gets Job With Chicago Opera

Henry G. Weber, a twenty-three-year-old Chicago boy, who has been acclaimed abroad as a musical genius, will make his debut with the Chicago Civic Opera at the Auditorium this season. Herbert M. Johnson, business manager of the opera, learned of Mr. Weber's musical prowess while searching for new talent abroad, and cabled to President Samuel Insull, Mr. Weber, who was visiting his mother in Chicago at the time, was signed at once as an assistant director.

School Trains Dogs to Lead Blind Men

Berlin.—In the historic city of Potsdam, there has been established a national training school for a type of dog conspicuous for the Red Cross insignia carried on his harness—the guide dog for blinded soldiers.

The dog must learn to walk slowly, to obey the master's word to fetch things for him when desired, not only to avoid the holes and projections, but also to pull the master over far enough for him also to avoid danger.

Supposing, for instance, there is a projecting mail box. It is no hindrance to the dog, but the animal must be taught that its master should be so led as to avoid running into it. These dogs must also learn to gauge the speed of traffic so as to indicate to their master whether it is safe to cross the street.

When the time has come for the dog to pass its final examination the trainer harnesses the dog and bids it lead its teacher, whose eyes are tied for the purpose, through Potsdam.

* * * * * SOCIAL CALENDAR * * * * *

A pretty scene was enacted in the home of Mrs. Polly Kerns of West Union street, Monday evening at six o'clock when Miss Urcie May Hatters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burch Hatters of Circleville, was united in marriage with Mr. John Ward Cross, of Columbus. Miss Ruth Cross, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid and his brother, Dennis, was best man. Miss Nelle Denman played the beautiful strains of Lohengrin's wedding march as the bridal party entered the living room where Rev. Wallin Riebel, of Columbus, gave the vows which made them man and wife, using the ring ceremony. The bride wore a gown of white silk and net and a veil of white tulle and she carried a large bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid wore a peach blossom georgette gown trimmed in silver lace and carried pink roses. Gladioli, ferns and old-fashioned garden flowers were used in decorating the living room. In the dining room where a delicious wedding dinner was served by the hostess, a color scheme of pink and white was carried out, one feature being streamers of white which were draped to the ends of the table from a great wedding bell suspended from the ceiling.

Among the guests at the ceremony and dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Burch Hatters, Mrs. Polly Kerns, Mr. and Mrs. John Kerns, Miss Nelle Denman, Mrs. John Neuding and Miss Cora Hampshire. The happy couple will live at 811 East Fulton street, Columbus.

The reunion of the Fortner and Foulke families was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Fortner of Tilton, Sunday, August 31, making the fourth annual reunion. All the relatives and friends came with well filled baskets and after the departing at a late hour in the afternoon all reported as having a good time and that there would be many more who would attend the fifth reunion which will be held at the Washington park, Columbus, Ohio, on the usual date, the Sunday before Labor day. Those present were Mr. John Foulke, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Foulke and daughter, Violet, of Shelby Ohio; Mrs. Nettie Bohnet and daughter, Mildred of Cleveland, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bushee and sons of Laurelville, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Homer Bushee and son, Lloyd, and daughters Adolph Bushee, Rhela Friend, of Lancaster; daughter and son-in-law of Adolph Bushee, of Springfield, Ohio; Mrs. Rufus Spangles and grandson, of Tilton; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gold-frederick and son, Ernest Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Preston William and son, Howard Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Holland, Mr. and Mrs. John Lutz, George Friend, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ketterman, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Reichelderfer, Mrs. McClain and daughter, Bessie, of Circleville; Mrs. Altie Carr of South Perry Ohio.

Divorce Suit Filed.

Zelma J. Hawthorn has filed a suit for divorce from William V. Hawthorn in common pleas court. The parties were married in Columbus August 30, 1919. She charges her husband with gross neglect and failure to provide. She asks the court to restore her to her maiden name Zelma J. Strous. The couple have no children. I. F. Snyder represents the plaintiff.

Receiver Appointed.

Attorney Herbert C. Sherman, of Columbus, has been appointed receiver of Harness Renick of this county. Mr. Renick has taken up his residence in California.

Marriage License.

Founded on Facts.

A lot of our fairy tales and nursery jingles are really historic in that they are exaggerated from a basis of facts. Mother Goose was a real person, named Mary Goose, buried in Boston. She wrote her rhymes for her grandchildren. Her son, a crafty printer, published them for other children. The latest discovery is that little Jack Horner was also a real person. He lived in England about 250 years or more ago. His home—purchased by one of his ancestors, Sir John Horner—will be sold at auction. It's the Mells estate, in Somersetshire, 6,000 acres. Most interesting real estate deal in 1923. The auctioneer seems to get everything eventually.—Exchange.

MRS. RHODA DICK

Succumb to Apoplexy at Her Home in Columbus—Burial at Mt. Sterling.

Mrs. Rhoda T. Dick, wife of Judge N. W. Dick, died at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning at her home, 1869 Summit street, Columbus. She had been critically ill since last Friday, when she was stricken with apoplexy.

Mrs. Dick was 67 years of age and had been a resident of Columbus 41 years. She was prominent in Indianola M. E. church and active in a number of other organizations, among them Lorraine chapter, Order of Eastern Star, Mt. Olive Shrine, White Shrine of Jerusalem, Damona Temple, Pythian Sisters; Wells Relief Corps and a number of other women's clubs.

Besides her husband she leaves three daughters, Mrs. V. W. Morehouse of St. Louis; Mrs. C. J. Wright of 1823 Cambridge boulevard and Mrs. H. L. Elcher of Seattle, Washington; Mrs. Charles Wishon, who lived practically her entire life as a member of the Dick household, to the time of her recent marriage, resides in Portsmouth. Mrs. Dick leaves also two brothers and two sisters.

Funeral services will be held in Indianola M. E. church at 1:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The interment will be at Mt. Sterling, Ohio.

Over Ton Litter Mark.

Charles Schleich on the Williamsport pike has demonstrated that growing a litter of pigs to weigh a ton on six months last year was not luck. This year he again went over the ton mark with one litter weighing 2060, and has another that bids to do still better when weighed September 26, the day it is six months old. This second litter weighs 1850 at the present time.

These litters altho fed separately, have been given the same care and same feed as his other spring pigs.

Mr. Schleich is a very diligent and efficient breeder and feeder, leaving nothing undone that will better his herd of Spotted Poland Chinas.

FIELD SELECTION IS THE SOLUTION.

Field selection of seed corn provides the best means of securing good, sound seed even from slightly immature corn. Just field select as nearly mature ears as possible; free from mold; borne on sound strong shanks; at a convenient height from the ground from vigorous, green healthy plants surrounded by a full stand.

Field selections is not all, however. Corn selected in this manner will heat and spoil very quickly if left in sacks or piles. Proper storage is essential. Store seed corn the same day as harvested in any dry, well ventilated place, so that no two ears touch. Field selection and proper storage will together solve the problem of next years seed.

AMUSEMENTS

Mystery, melodrama, thrills, comedy heart-appeal and all the rest are packed into "The Bedroom Window," the new William de Mille production for Paramount, which opened at the Met theater last night.

Written by the author of "Grumpy" "Only 38," "Don't Call It Love," etc., this production is our idea of well nigh perfect screen entertainment. There have been mystery dramas and mystery dramas, but never before has a story quite come up to the interesting theme running all thru "The Bedroom Window." Some pictures start off with a bang only to slow up as they progress. Others start slowly and close with a great smashing climax. "The Bedroom Window" opens with a bang and closes with a great smashing climax and that's all about all need be said about any picture.

May McAvoy has the principal feminine role in this production and Malcolm MacGregor is leading man. Other featured players include Ricardo Cortez in a more or less heavy role, Robert Edeson, George Fawcett and Ethel Wales. Mrs. Beranger wrote both original story and screen play and L. Guy Wilky did the photography.

FLOUR MILL BURNS.

The Jackson Milling company, mill and elevator at Jackson, owned by A. L. Mingus was destroyed by fire Tuesday evening. The plant was valued at $75,000 and the owner carried but $15,000 insurance on the building.

The mill was first built in 1859 and was almost destroyed in the Civil war by Morgan raiders. J. W. Johnson, editor of the Democrat, remembers the old mill with fond recollections, and often as a barefooted boy in the good old summer time he was sent to the mill to bring home flour for the household.

STATE'S EYE BILL IS BIG FEATURE

Pennsylvanians Give Up $1,000,000 a Year.

Of mortal features, the eye and hair have had most publicity.

Until "woman's crowning glory" became largely bobbed, it occupied a lesser place than the eye, and even now poets and songsters generally devote pages to eyes where they give lines to hair.

John Milton went the limit when he saw "heaven in the eye." No use to attempt anything beyond that.

But in a cold industrial world the human eye again plays a leading role. Broken eyeglasses are daily tragedies multiplied by thousands.

Optician and oculist bills are superlatives which invade practically every home. One of our foremost oculists tells me that of Philadelphia's 450,000 families, not 50,000 escape the eyeglass, writes "Girard" in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

And it is just downright hard luck that the very thing we prize most we lose oftenest. In proof of which I cite the nonpoetic reports of Royal Meeker, our state secretary of labor.

Pennsylvania gets busier all the time, yet accidents in industry have been steadily decreasing. But the loss of eyes grows larger. And industry is taxed in Pennsylvania each year far more to pay for eyes than for legs or arms, feet or hands.

Eight years ago there were reported in this state 255,000 accidents. Last year only 200,000.

To be sure, even the latter total equaled the list of American wounded in the World war. But the curious part is that last year seven times as many permanent injuries were reported as in 1922, and nearly double the number of any year in the last eight.

More and better protection in industries prevents general accidents, but the loss of eyes continues with inexorable rapidity.

Pennsylvania quotes an eye at considerably less value, when fixing a rate of compensation for its loss, than it places upon a hand or foot, leg or arm.

Nevertheless, industry in Pennsylvania was taxed just short of $1,000,000 last year to pay for eyes.

The loss of eyes costs an average of $1.25 each.

A foot is less valuable than a hand, so $1,700 is paid for a loss of the former and $2,000 for the breadwinner.

Arms and legs are about the same price, $2,400. Due to the far smaller number of afflictions as applied to hands, feet, arms and legs they all fell far below the eye in the total money loss represented.

In eight years our state's industries have paid out under the workmen's compensation law about $93,000,000. That covered more than 20,000 fatalities in that period and nearly 1,500,000 lesser accidents.

The eye bill last year was nearly three times the amount paid in 1916.

In the last decade I have gone thoroughly through a hundred representative Philadelphia industries. Everywhere was emphasized a fine contrast with older days in the guards set against accidents.

Prevention is found not only more humane but financially much cheaper than cure, as it is in other ills.

Old College Society

In announcing the plan to celebrate the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of its founding, Phi Beta Kappa, the college honor society, announces that ten presidents of the United States, beginning with John Quincy Adams, were members of the organization.

"Phi Beta Kappa is the oldest of the Greek letter college societies, or fraternities, and is in fact the progenitor of the entire college fraternity system," says a statement, according to the Detroit News. "It was organized December 5, 1776, when the first meeting was held at the College of William and Mary at Williamsburg, Va. A few college societies are older than Phi Beta Kappa, among them 'Whig' and 'Chio' at Princeton, but none of them sought to expand by the organization of similar societies in other colleges.

"Phi Beta Kappa began to think of reaching out when it was but little over two years old, and at the celebration of its third anniversary it granted a charter for a branch at Harvard and four days later another for a branch at Yale."

False Reading

Brander Matthews, the eminent critic of Columbia university, said at a reception:

"America now rejoices in a new school of novelists—naturalized novelists for the most part—who portray American life cynically and falsely. They interpret our life very much as the promoter interpreted the proverb.

"A Greek philosopher tells us," said the promoter, "that every failure is a step toward success. Well, now, I guess that must be the reason why I grow a little richer every time I fail."

Matter of Dy(e)ing

A professor of philology was conducting his class one morning when the word "cosmos" came up for discussion.

"This word," said the professor, according to a California exchange, "is Greek and means order, harmony; hence beauty; the universe and cosmetics, then, have the same root, as you will see."

"Oh, professor," said a girl pupil, "in that case henna and Gehenna are not so very far apart."—Boston Transcript.

NEW RECORD IN RAW SILK RACE

America Winning Heats in Contests Whose Stakes Are Millions.

Washington.—Uncle Sam has been winning heats in one of the most dramatic races ever staged by trade—the raw silk transport race.

The course is 8,300 miles. Swiftest steamships, special trains for which speed limits are waived, seaplanes and airplanes participate. But there is no cheering crowd in the stands, because every mile of the race is concealed with the closest secrecy. The stakes are millions.

In 1918, 81 per cent of the United States' huge silk imports from Japan came in foreign steamers but within two years steamers flying the American flag in the Pacific have obtained an important share of this valuable trade.

Why silk is rushed from Yokohama to New York at break-neck speed, outdistancing the best passenger service, and the thrilling details of this contest against time over the world's longest race course are told in the following bulletin issued by the National Geographic society:

Excepting gold and silver bullion, silk probably is the most precious commodity, weight for weight, carried on a large scale by commerce. A single special train will bring $5,000,000 worth of silk. Just as it costs dearly to ship money, high charges are put on silk shipments. The saving of two days' sailing time between Yokohama and Seattle is said to make a difference of 50 cents a bale at New York. Interest on the millions of dollars tied up multiples at the rate of thousands of dollars a day and, in addition, there is costly insurance.

New Silk Course Record.

The world's record on the Yokohama-New York silk course was set up a few months ago when the Orient was brought within 13 days, 3 hours and 8 minutes of Manhattan. Laden with $5,500,000 worth of raw silk, the President Jackson made Seattle on the ninth day. A United States mail seaplane met the liner at Victoria and winged its way to Seattle, 100 miles away. It brought port documents, and forwarded cargo papers to New York before the President Jackson docked.

Special port forces moved the rich consignment in three hours to a special silk train waiting with steam up. The swift Oriental limited passenger trains take 70 hours to reach Chicago; the "reefer," as the silk special is known to railroaders, makes it in 65 hours. Twelve cars were required for the President Jackson cargo. With Queen Silk goes a heavy cordon of train guards armed to the teeth. When the treasure train safely reaches New York the shipment is divided quickly among the consignees for storage in warehouses or dispatched to mills in such famous silk towns as Paterson, N. J., or Woonsocket, R. I.

Carried on Mystery Train.

Few people know when the "reefer" is on the rails. Like a ship of war, it virtually runs under sealed orders. Railroad divisions seldom know when it is coming or where it is going until it and orders arrive.

The previous speed record for silk shipments was made when the President Grant landed a $10,000,000 consignment at Seattle. The "reefer" brought this product of billions of caterpillars into New York in 13 days, 4 hours and 55 minutes out of Yokohama. Night air mail will be a boon to these New York silk merchants. Before silk shipments can be released many papers must be approved and inspected. Seattle has one of the two seaplane mail services in the United States, hence Queen Silk will suffer no embarrassment of delay. Night air mail will hasten dispatch of silk shipment papers to New York so there will be no slip when the dusty "reefer" reaches the Hudson.

Although silk culture originated in China and the very name China finds its birth in a term meaning "silk people," the United States looks to Japan for most of this raw material. American mills are weaving nearly 50,000,000 pounds of raw silk annually, of which about 80 per cent comes from Japanese mulberry orchards. The ugly little silk worm is treated with great respect in the Orient for it brings to the Far Eastern peoples more than $300,000,000 from the United States alone.

Queen Silk's throne is as solid as the year it was set up by a Chinese princess, centuries before the birth of Christ. The Western world began to worship her when the crusaders went to the East "to kill the horned devil and returned to imitate the fine gentlemen they found there." The merchants of Venice, thriving on the West's new knowledge, like the merchants of New York today, guarded Queen Silk well; this single city-state built 300 men-of-war to convoy its silk fleets.

Innocent of a Barber

Maysville, Mo.—W. R. Taylor, who lives on a farm between this city and Cameron, declares that he has lived 72 years and has never been shaved by a barber. Taylor revealed this fact when he read in a local newspaper that a man has reported that he was fifty-one years old and had never been shaved by a barber. As a result of his claim, Taylor beats the other man by 21 years.

Indian Legends Good for Bedtime Stories

One of the charms of Indian myths about animals is that they explain the unexplainable so plausibly. How did the flying squirrel get its flying apparatus? Instead of going into lengthy explanations the Senecas relate that there was a time long ago when animals and birds were very large and trees more lofty and rivers broader than nowadays. On one occasion a squirrel, which had been hoarding nuts against the winter, found his store being steadily robbed. For a long time he could not discover the culprit, but finally found that a woodchuck and a giant bullfrog with teeth had been stealing his nuts.

The culprits were haled before the great chief of all the squirrels and brought to judgment. By way of sentence the woodchuck was ordered to have his tail removed in order to humble his pride, and the bullfrog to have his teeth taken out so that he would no longer be tempted to steal another's store. But the squirrel was also blamed for carelessness in building his nest so low that other animals might reach it. He was therefore ordered to nest in the high trees and by way of compensation was given a blanket to stretch between his legs so that he might sail through the air like a leaf.

A wolf snapped off the woodchuck's tail and a heron picked out the bullfrog's teeth, and thenceforth all woodchucks were tailless and bullfrogs toothless, and the former feared the wolf mightily and the latter hid at the sight of the heron. The squirrel's descendants, however, had blankets, and that is why they sail around from limb to limb so readily.

Of such stuff are many Indian tales made. Here are bedtime stories of infinitely greater worth than many of the modern children's yarns. There is room for a volume of real American fairy tales.—New York Times.

Penalty of Penury

"It doesn't pay to be close-fisted when you're running for office," says a prominent middle-western politician. "One time a tightwad down in our county decided to run for the legislature. His friends urged him to spend a little money, but he consistently refused up to the night before election. When he gave in to the extent of buying and distributing a bale or so of the cheapest cigars he could find—poisonous ropes, all of them. Election morning he sauntered down to the polls to see how things were going. He was met by a group of his workers.

"Well, boys," said he, "am I winnin' or losin'?" "Your gone," replied one of the workers mournfully. "What's the matter?" asked the candidate. "All your friends who took your cigars last night are sick in bed today!"

School Aids Job Holders

Vocational guidance, vocational training, and education for citizenship are the aims of the part-time school, New York's most recent experiment in the field of vocational education, says School Life. Minors between fourteen and eighteen, not high school graduates and not in attendance upon the regular full-time schools, must attend such schools for not less than four days between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. When the child is placed in some selected occupation the school keeps in touch with its progress. If the employer does not himself provide it, the school gives instruction related to the occupation. Many employers are now maintaining part-time or apprentice schools.

Founding of Rome

Legend, accepted as authentic in later Roman times, made Romulus the founder of the city of Rome and the Palatine, one of the seven hills that rise on the left bank of the Tiber, the site of the first settlement. The entire period from the date of the foundation of the city, 753 B. C., to the establishment of the republic, 509 B. C., is in its detailed history unknown, and from the mass of myth and legend it is possible to derive only the very broadest conceptions of the beginnings of the Roman state. This is due to the fact that the authentic records of Rome date only from 390 B. C., the year of the destruction of the city by the Gauls.

The Reason

Sallie, buxom and dark, was enjoying the lunch provided by her employer, except the bread, and that remained untouched.

When questioned why she did not eat the bread, she replied that she did not eat gunpowder.

"Gunpowder?" exclaimed her astonished employer. "Why, Sallie, that is poppyseed on the bread. What ever made you think it was gunpowder?" "Well," explained Sallie, with characteristic drawl, "you know they used to feed gunpowder to the soldiers down South to make 'em fight, and I thought you was feedin' me gunpowder to make me work."—Indianapolis News.

Going Down

Charles M. Schwab said in a recent Y. M. C. A. address in Yonkers: "Whatever you undertake, see it through. Stick at it till it's done. Don't be always shifting round from one thing to another."

Mr. Schwab struck the reading desk with his fist.

"Boys," he said, "remember this—A rolling stone not only gathers no moss, but it always rolls down hill."

HESSIAN FLY

Will Increase This Fall and Cause Great Loss Unless Controlled.

The large numbers of hessian fly now present in many counties of Ohio will rapidly increase this fall and cause great loss to wheat growers unless proper methods of control are adopted. Observing the safe sowing dates is the easiest and surest way to avoid this unnecessary loss, according to state entomologists.

The safe dates as determined by these entomologists vary according to latitude from September 22 to October 1 for the northern edge of the state and from October 5 to 14 for the southernmost counties. The dates of each locality will be announced by the county agents.

Wheat insect surveys are made annually by entomologists of the state department of agriculture, college of agriculture and experiment station. These surveys show an increase from the 1923 average of 4.3 per cent to 10.3 per cent in 1924. In some of the counties where there has been a determined effort to overcome infestation the average has been kept down and in some instances actually reduced.

Great damage to a community may be done by a few early sown fields by perpetuating the pest and giving it a chance to multiply.

To avoid injury by fly and winter killing in Pickaway county, sow between September 30 and October 9.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS.

At the chapel meeting held last Monday morning the class of 1924 gave $78 toward building a fence around the football field and also donated $42 toward the publication of the annual for the coming year. The Sigma Phi Tau composed of members from the classes of 1924 and 1925, presented a set of books valued at $66 to the school library.

HARTMAN THEATER

Cecil B. De Mille's spectacular dramatic production, "The Ten Commandments" will begin the third and final week of its engagement at the Hartman theater tomorrow with two performances at 2:20 and 8:20 and will follow the same schedule thruout the rest of the week. This will, however, positively be the final week, as bookings at the Hartman prevent further continuance of the run.

Inasmuch as the production will not be shown in any other theater in Columbus this season, local theatergoers will have to avail themselves of the remaining performances next week or wait at least another year and probably two years to see it again. The production is accompanied by complete symphony orchestra at all performances.

Excels in Strength and Performance

In its admiration of the good Maxwell's ability to outperform anything at anywhere near the price, the American public should remember—

1st.—That no other car in America, regardless of price, excels Maxwell strength and staunchness in proportion to weight and power.

2nd.—That at all vital points, metals and construction are the same as in cars that cost three to four times as much.

3rd.—That in its manufacture, no measures are too costly to protect the owner fully, in person and in pocket.

Those are the precise reasons why the good Maxwell—now under the supervision of Chrysler engineers—stands up and delivers its splendid service at such amazingly low cost.

All Maxwell dealers are in position to extend the convenience of time-payments. Ask about Maxwell's attractive plan.

Art of the Story Writer.

Story-writing is always experimental, just as a water color is, and that something which does itself is the vitality of it. I think we must know what good work is before we can do good work of our own, and so I say, study work that the best judges have called good and see why it is good; whether it is, in that particular story, the reticence or the bravery of speech, the power of suggestion that is in it, or the absolute clearness and finality of revelation; whether it sets you thinking, or whether it makes you see a landscape with a live human figure living its life in the foreground—

English Statesman's Nicknames.

Lord John Russell's diminutive stature earned him other nicknames besides the inevitable "Johnny." The neatest is the one recorded by Creevey, which was bestowed by some wag upon him when he married the widow of the second Lord Ribblesdale—"the Widow's Mite." John Russell was a frail and delicate child from the first, but his physique cannot have been helped by the hardship of his school days. He had to be taken away from Westminster because he could not stand the fagging and unwholesome food. And before that came a private school at Sunbury, where, as he recalled in later life, he found the mutton fat so intolerable that he dropped it under the table. But the master, a clergyman, made him sweep it up off the dusty floor and eat it, dirt and all.

London's Famous Fog.

No description of London would be complete without a reference, however brief, to the singular salubrity and charm of the London climate. This is seen at its best during the autumn and winter months. The climate of London, and indeed of England generally, is due to the influence of the Gulf stream. The way it works is this: The Gulf stream, as it nears the shores of the British Isles and feels the propinquity of Ireland, rises into the air, turns into soup, and comes down on London. At times this soup is thin and is in fact a little more than a mist; at other times it has the consistency of a thick Potage St. Germain. London people flatter their atmosphere by calling it a fog; but it is not; it is soup.—Stephen Leacock in Harper's Magazine.

Biblical Lilies Believed Anemones.

The "lilies of the field," so often mentioned in the Bible, are thought to be the red and purple, particularly the red, anemones with black centers. These anemones grow among thorn hedges in the East, which accounts for the saying "lilies among thorns."

When "Flappers" Used Snuff.

The flapper of 200 years ago had one besetting weakness that is not shared by her modern sister. The use of snuff was one of the petty vices of the young lady of fashion in the Eighteenth century. The practice elicited a roar of protest from a gentleman who wrote a letter on the subject in 1711. He tells of the conduct of a young gentlewoman in church, and declares "she pulls out her box in the middle of the sermon and, to show that she has the audacity of a well-bred woman, she offered it to the men as well as to the women who sit next her. Last Sunday, when they came about for the offering, she gave her charity with a very good air, but at the same time asked the church warden if he would take a pinch."

Prize Morsel Among Cannibals.

Among the cannibals of New Guinea, according to W. F. Alder in his new book, "The Isle of Vanishing Men," no morsel is more prized at a feast than the left shoulder blade of a ten-year-old girl. It is recorded also that one roasted "long pig" will satisfy the hunger of 10 persons, but that it is considered more prudent to have one for every six feasters. When a raiding party of cannibals, says Mr. Alder, finds a victim asleep, they always awaken up before killing him; the reason being that the first word he utters is used as the name of the next baby born in the settlement of the raiders.

Member of Carp Family.

Goldfish are a variety of the carp and owe their existence to the Chinese and Japanese people, who, since the Sixteenth century, have kept them in a domesticated state, and by selective breeding have eliminated the somber colors of the ancestral stock and produced the beautiful colors we now see. During their first year goldfish are brown, after which they assume a silvery tint, and as they grow older they change to gold.

Color of Gold.

When you look at a bit of pure gold you are quite well satisfied that it is of a light yellow color. It only appears so. The white light reflected from its surface has the effect of adulterating the color rays from the metal and it appears much lighter than it really is. If this white light is eliminated, the color is a brilliant orange. Beaten to its greatest possibility of thinness, it becomes transparent to light and held up and looked through, it becomes a lively sage green. Reduced to a fine powder it becomes ruby red and when vaporized it becomes purple.

Hog's Bristle First Hairspring.

In the early days of watch-making science had not yet developed steel sufficiently to be made a part of the timepiece's delicate mechanism. It was therefore given to one of the commonest of barnyard animals—the pig—to make an important contribution to the science of horology. The first hairspring was actually made from a hog's bristle, and it worked very well indeed, and also served to demonstrate the correctness of the principle involved. The next step was the substitution of a steel spring, and this led to the development of the coiled hairspring which is in use in the modern watches.

The Raccoon.

The raccoon, or coon, as he is more commonly called in the United States, where he makes his home, has the odd little habit of dipping his food in water, as if to wash it perfectly clean, before eating. Coons den up for the winter, like bears, sometimes singly, sometimes several together as if for company, in a hollow tree or other convenient place.

Too Much Talk.

And the more energy a man expends in talking the less he will have left to assist him in making good.

Permanent Teeth.

When your permanent teeth are all in place nature has finished her tooth job. You have your share of teeth and if you don't take care of them you will either have to do without teeth or use artificial ones. Who wants to do without teeth? Certainly you and we don't. Besides, it is not very pleasant to have them taken out. Your permanent teeth are a wonderful mechanism. They masticate your food, give shape and expression to your face and distinctness to your voice. The loss of even one tooth is a very serious injury, but the loss of more than one is a calamity. The longer you live the more you need your teeth.—National Dental Association Journal.

Bunyan Holds Record.

"Pilgrim's Progress," next to the Bible, has been translated into more languages than any other book. The number (according to information received from the reference librarian of the New York Public library) now exceeds 107 languages and dialects. Mr. Frank H. Mann, general secretary of the American Bible society, says this is a remarkable record for any book, and only goes to emphasize the more remarkable record of the Bible in this respect. The Bible has been translated in part into 770 languages and dialects, more than seven times as many as John Bunyan's immortal work, which first appeared in 1678.

Iceland can claim probably the most northern mill ever erected, for in Reykjavik, a little isolated town of about 3,000 inhabitants, we find an old mill, probably the first and only mill in the early days in Iceland.

When Engineer Outwitted the Bold Bandits

By GEORGE ELMER COBB

(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

"HANDS off that throttle!" A signal had halted the train, comprising a locomotive and a single express car. Now, at the side of the track, a sturdy Mexican of the desperado type held a magazine revolver in either hand.

The engineer raised both hands; the fireman backed up against the coal heap in the tender and followed suit.

The terminus of the branch line was intact, and here there was a little bank. It was owned by Henry Morse, who operated a larger institution in a good-sized city just over the Texas state line. The engineer of the present "special" was not an engineer. However, for two years, back in his life, he had "worked on the road."

The anxious banker tried to get the railroad company to send a special to intact to bring thence the little bank safe containing important documents and cash, and found no one willing to undertake the dangerous mission. Albin Marvin stepped to the front.

The railroad company agreed to furnish an engine and steel express car. Ben Wharton, a skilled fireman, undertook to run the gauntlet with the novice engineer on a promise of quadruple pay.

They had made the run to intact without hindrance. The little safe had been put aboard the train.

At intact no attack or outbreak was attempted. A pretense was made by the legal authorities to protect the removal of the safe. They laughed in their sleeves, however.

"That loot will never leave Mexican territory," they predicted.

Ten miles, fifteen miles, twenty miles the train progressed. Then the signal, the armed Mexican and engineer and fireman challenged and helpless, as seen.

The Mexican did not speak further. He kept his weapons leveled as if posing for a picture. Suddenly he gave a shrill, piercing whistle. Its echoes had scarcely died away when half a dozen armed men descended from a covert.

The fireman, closely scrutinizing his comrade, fancied he traced a quick glitter in his clear, scrutinizing eyes. The engineer seemed calculating. Their challenger was just in range of the exhaust cock. In fact, his face was directly upon a level with it.

Suddenly, but quite naturally, it looked, the engineer gave a lurch. His elbow met the extending valve.

Straight into the face of the unsuspecting Mexican went a scalding deluge. Blinded, blistered, in agony, he dropped both revolvers. His hands went up to his tortured eyes.

"Now, then!" shouted Marvin, and he sprang to the lever.

A dozen shots from the bandits rattled against the cab. A curve was turned.

"Saved!" uttered the fireman, with grin and chuckle.

"Hardly," qualified Marvin. "If we can only make Sonoma!" he repeated, in a business-like tone that sounded hopeful to his puzzled assistant. "I thought so!" he added half an hour later, and slowed up just in time to avoid dashing into a barricade of railroad ties piled across the rails. This time six rough characters surrounded the engine.

"Cut off that car!" ordered their leader, and Marvin obeyed.

"Now, then, go on about your business," was the added command, and at a wave of the speaker's hand his subordinates removed the obstacle on the tracks.

Open-mouthed, dejected, the fireman stared at Marvin as he resumed his duties.

"See here," he finally observed, "they've got what they were after."

"Yes, the express car," nodded Marvin gayly. "It will take them an hour to burst in that steel door to get into the big safe."

"Well, then—"

"By that time we shall be at Sonoma."

"You keep saying 'Sonoma,'" rather irritably observed the fireman. "What's Sonoma got to do with it, anyhow?"

This much: To the advancing mystification of the fireman, as they neared Sonoma, instead of running on the main track, Marvin slowed up, set a switch to a long siding running to a mahogany forest a mile or two distant, halted amid a lonely solitude and drew forth and blew a signal whistle.

Within a few moments a responding "honk! honk!" came from a near roadway and an automobile appeared.

"Now, then, off with that coal!" ordered Marvin, and a brief burrowing revealed the little strong box that had never seen the inside of the steel express car.

Four armed men were in the auto. The train was abandoned, the run started for the Texas border.

It was early the next morning that Albin Marvin reported to Henry Morse with a rather proud look of expectation on his handsome features.

His faithful assistant, the fireman, left the banker, his face in a broad grin over his quadruple reward.

When Albin Marvin went up to the Morse mansion that evening to relate his story to his delighted employer, Helen Morse was waiting for him, and when he left the house later he knew that he had won her for a bride.
